Subject: Online Tutoring Platform

Hi All,

We have partnered with TutorOcean to continue offering online tutoring to students in Study Lab. I know there is other tutoring going on within departments/units. I wanted to offer use of this platform, it is being given to us free for 3 months, for any other areas that may want to take advantage of it. If you click the link below, you will be taken to our site's page. If you click on "For Tutors" at the top right, there is an option to view a demo of the classroom to see the space tutors would have to work with students online. The way we have it set up is similar to Zoom in that each tutor has a unique link to their personal classroom that they share with students scheduled to meet with them. If you are interested in using this option with your students I am happy to talk with you about getting your students on board.

Subject: Study Lab Remote!

Dear Professors,

As I'm sure you are busy preparing to transition your courses online for the remainder of the term, I just wanted to make sure you know that we will continue to offer peer tutoring and academic coaching virtually for the remainder of the term. We all know this is a stressful time for students and we want to make sure that they still have this resource available to them as they finish out the term. I have been so impressed with how willing and enthusiastic our tutors have been to continue our services remotely. I hope that students take advantage of this opportunity. Information on how to access these services can be found on our website:

<https://www.asundergrad.pitt.edu/study-lab/study-lab-remote-distance-learning-services>.

Additionally, we have 2 new online workshops available to students specific to skills needed for success in online courses which may be helpful for students as they figure out how to approach and plan for online learning. Those can also be found at the link above.

Take care,
Mary
