

From: University Center for Teaching and Learning [mailto:teaching@pitt.edu]

Sent: 03/21/2020 7:59 PM

Subject: Special Message: March 21, 2020

University Center for Teaching and Learning

Special Message: March 21, 2020

In anticipation of the resumption of class on March 23, please review the details contained in this message to help you launch your courses on Monday.

- 1) See our new tips for communicating with students as classes move online are available to all faculty.
- 2) Visit teaching.pitt.edu for immediate access to resources on instructional continuity in the remote environment.
- 3) Read the message from Provost Cudd, which contains important information about available resources, as well as information about policies and facilities, and the Provost's message to students.
- 4) Direct your technical questions (like basic Blackboard/Canvas, Zoom, software, home network connections, etc.) to the Help Desk at 412-624-HELP. They are open 24 hours.
- 5) If you contact the Teaching Center (teaching@pitt.edu or 412-648-2832) we will respond as quickly as possible, as we work to triage the calls/emails and get them directed to the right person.
- 6) Our hours of operation for the week of March 23 will be 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Sincerely,
University Center for Teaching and Learning

